Excess charges

Excess Charge Notices will be issued for:

- Not clearly displaying a valid parking ticket.
- Not clearly displaying a valid season ticket.

The Excess charge is £70.00 if payment is made within 28 days. However, we will accept £35.00 if we receive payment within 14 days. Failure to pay within 28 days will result in debt recovery through the County Court. No allowance is made for £35.00 postal payments that are not received within 14 days.

If you wish to appeal against an ECN all appeals must be received in writing within 28 days, if you appeal before the end of the first 14 days, the reduced charge will carry over for a further 7 days if the appeal is unsuccessful.

We will normally consider cancelling an ECN if you can show that any one or more of the following applies:

- The contravention did not occur
- All nearby pay and display machines were faulty. (We keep a record of all faults and the action we took to correct them).
- The information on the ECN is incorrect or incomplete because the parking attendant has made a mistake.
- The vehicle was broken down and you can show that you had taken steps to move it.

It is advised that recipients of ECN's consider their response carefully.

The advice is to either pay it or appeal within 14 days if you wish to benefit from the lower charge of £35.00.

ECC will always pursue non-payment as far as it is able to in law.
